

Screen Dumps

A screen dump is a 'snapshot' of everything on your computer's screen i.e. you capture the whole screen & then you 'crop' the image to only include the bits you want.

Screen dumps are an ideal way to capture images from: Artrage 2, Inkscape, Lego Digital Designer, Anim8or, Google Sketchup or an Internet site that allows copying.

How to do it:

1. Work on your digital image in your software of choice.
2. Press the 'Print Screen' button on your keyboard when you have your image looking good enough to show the world.
3. Open Paint.NET
4. Press Ctrl + V to paste the screen image into Paint.NET
5. Use the 'Getting Your Image Ready for Blogmeister' procedure to optimize your graphic.
